Threatened Scholars Integration Initiative – Open Society

University Network

- Deadline: 15 March 2022 (for applications), 15 April 2022 (for nominations)
- Eligibility: The category of Threatened Scholar includes: career academics, graduate students, and independent scholars, as well as writers, intellectuals, and artists whose work relates to teaching, learning, research, and the public mission of higher education, and whose lives or livelihoods are currently at risk.
- Funding: TSI offers three types of fellowships
 - Residential fellows (residence at a OSUN institution). Funding includes salary, benefits, and support for research and travel, following local standards. This fellowship covers a 2 year period, based on available funding and an evaluation after the first year. There is the possibility of renewal for a third academic year.
 - Non-Residential fellows are scholars who cannot or choose not to leave their home countries or who are unable to travel from a third country. They pursue distance academic work online and in coordination with host colleagues. This fellowship covers 1 academic year with the possibility for an additional year, based on available funding and an evaluation by the scholar and the host institution. This stipend is lower than the one for residential fellows.

- How to apply: Guidelines for how to apply can be found here. The platform can be contacted here tsi@opensocietyuniversitynetwork.org
